When will applicants be notified of their scholarships? While applicants are notified of admissions after review of their application file and an in-person interview, matriculation (beginning the program) is dependent on an applicant passing the Hebrew exam. Students will be informed about their scholarships when they are notified about matriculation. (Students who do not pass the Hebrew exam but whose scores are close to passing are invited to a “pre-Ulpan” in Israel and, after a month of study, are given the opportunity to begin the regular program. At the end of the summer, their progress will be evaluated along with the other students in the class. Students who successfully complete this option will be informed of their scholarships at the end of the summer.
